

TANFORAN OPENING IS CLOSE AT HAND

By J. W. MARCHBANK

Gratifying progress in the transformation of the Tanforan race track into a down-to-date home of the thoroughbred promises a grand opening for the spring season of sport on Saturday, April 20 (three weeks from tomorrow). Pretty close, we'll say, and how the time is flying.

My main object in remodeling the grandstand, adding a northern and southern wing to the club house, and moving the racing strip to the eastward by a substantial margin, is to make the plant even more comfortable for the fans than it has been in the years since the game was restored at Tanforan. Racing people have always gone away with the most pleasant of memories of Tanforan and with the changes being made that pleasure will be heightened to a marked extent.

In the northern addition club house patrons will be much nearer to the finish line than heretofore. And when you are fortunate enough to have a winning ticket the thrill is doubled by sighting your "pick" in front at the same instant as the men in the pagoda. Ample lawn space has been provided for both the club house and grandstand spectators by the building of the new racing strip sixty feet farther to the east.

In the spacious northern unit of the club house will be sellers of totalisator tickets and in the southern unit a salon of the most modern design. Particular attention has been taken in selecting the color scheme for the club house and the effect is bound to be extremely pleasing to the most discriminating taste in esthetics.

On the racing side I am working out a problem that will evoke plenty of enthusiasm from traveled patrons who are accustomed to "action" at a race track of the class of Tanforan. One of the most inspiring sights at courses I have visited in other parts of the world is the gallop to the post after the field has left the paddock. Of course prior to a race it would not do for the runners to go full tilt; before the race it is a gentle gallop or canter. Cutting out of snail's pace parades is something that must be accomplished.

HECTIC SESSION OVER CHARGES BEFORE COUNCIL

Innuendos Fly Back And Forth—Two Hour Scrap Ends In No Contest

A communication was received by the city council at its session Monday from the Daly City Recreation and Improvement Club requesting the former body to proceed with a bond election to provide proposed improvements, as well as play grounds in the Crocker tract. The suggestion was advanced that it is possible to secure SERA assistance if action is taken soon. The matter was referred to the City Planning Commission and to the city engineer.

The Jefferson School District asked for use of nine election booths for the school election today. Granted.

The council concurred in a request from the San Bruno city council in endorsing the Mills Field Airport site for the Bay Bridge Exposition.

In the matter of allegations that the plumbing ordinance of the city was being violated, charges and counter charges were bandied until the issue became so confused that no decision could be arrived at. One charge alleged that some plumbers in the city were doing business without first having obtained a current license. This was not denied or refuted.

With reference to a charge regarding faulty plumbing installation at a Mission street location where a restaurant is being conducted, it was

BIDS REJECTED FOR GRAMMAR SCHOOLS

At its meeting last Thursday evening the Board of Trustees of the Jefferson School District rejected all bids which had been submitted for construction of the three new elementary schools.

This was necessitated by receipt of a telegram from PWA authorities at Washington ordering such rejection and re-advertising for new bids and revision of the specifications, it was stated.

Word was received yesterday that the revised plans had been approved by the state authorities.

Revision of the plans calls for better grades of materials in the construction than those originally specified.

COUNTY BOARD INSISTS ON ORDER AT ITS MEETINGS

Publicity Director Named To "Preserve Decorum" As Result Of Controversy

At the meeting of the County Board of Supervisors on Monday Supervisor Al Witt, Daly City, suggested the decorum preservation idea and the sergeant-at-arms to keep order after a dispute arose before the board that, for a time, threatened to assume large proportions. This dispute involved two women, when one challenged the other about the latter's interest in sponsoring migratory labor camps.

Public discussion of an addition to the courthouse, for which the PWA has set aside $167,000 in the form of a loan and grant, and which requires a special election, was decided on by the supervisors. A public meeting will be held April 5 at a place to be decided on later. Meanwhile County Clerk Elmore B. Hinman will contact civic organizations as to their views regarding the matter.

WEEKLY BULLETIN

(By Chief A. P. Chesney)

To continue last week's bulletin in regard to the danger of using gasoline or other inflammable liquids for cleaning purposes, will relate another instance which happened in this vicinity: An alarm came in for this department, recently, although the fire was over the line in San Francisco. Two of our companies responded and the same old story was found. A woman was cleaning clothing with gasoline and, sad to relate, she was so seriously burned that she passed away the day after the fire.

Last Sunday night at 7 o'clock the alarm system gave one blow and then stuck. After a great deal of searching it was found that one of those morons that like to turn in false alarms had struck Box No. 17 with a large stone and broken the mechanism inside. If it is any satisfaction to the culprit, would like him to know that these alarm boxes cost Daly City $125 each to install, and it cost nearly $50 to repair this one, as well as causing the department considerable trouble.

HAS FINEST ROLE IN NEW PICTURE

Baby Star Has The Perfect Screen Vehicle In Latest Film, "Bright Eyes"

Shirley Temple, most sensational screen discovery of the year, at last has "the perfect screen vehicle." That, at any rate, is the gist of the enthusiastic advance accounts which precede Fox Film's "Bright Eyes" to the Daly City Theater, where it will begin an engagement of three days, March 31, April 1 and 2.

Hollywood and New York have previewed this newest of Shirley's films and have voted it a story ideally suited to the extraordinary talents of this child star. It was written especially for her and is described as a remarkably human and heart-warming narrative.

The dramatic story of "Bright Eyes" was suggested to David Butler, director, by a real-life incident occurring at a commercial airport near Los Angeles. He told it to Sol M. Wurtzel, Fox Film producer, who at once grew enthusiastic about the idea as a vehicle for the remarkable child star. Butler and Edwin Burke, famous screen writer, collaborated on the story, which was then adapted to the screen by William Conselman.

Shirley, it is reported, was overjoyed when she was informed that James Dunn would again be her pal and leading man in "Bright Eyes." It was with Dunn, to whom she is devoted, that she appeared in "Baby Take a Bow" and "Stand Up and Cheer." Preview audiences have declared "Bright Eyes" to be their finest vehicle to date.

On the same program is "The President Vanishes" with Paul Kelly. Also "Popeye in Wild Elephants."

A REMINDER

Supervised play is being conducted every Saturday at the General Pershing and Vista Grande school grounds from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m., under the supervision of qualified teachers.

Miss Vireno and Mrs. Puszyr are planning to have tournament games between the two schools.

Mothers, you are requested to send your children to these play grounds so that they will be able to participate in these games.

LATEST GOLD RUSH IS BIG HELP TO SCIENCE

By J. W. MARCHBANK
Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work

Experts in paleontology and other sciences that have to do with the fossil organic remains are gaining rich data in the new gold rush along the Pacific Coast. It is interesting to review some of the sidelights of the intensive search for gold that has been going on for the last few years.

Harry D. MacGinitie, of the University of California, has found more than forty kinds of leaves, including figs, palms, sycamores, avocados, and magnolias, in the You Bet area up in Nevada County. Fossils, of course. None of those kind of trees have lived down to the present time in the region of You Bet. The hills are now occupied by pines and oaks. The evidence is along the line of proving the climate in the northern part of the state was once similar to that of Mexico and Central America.

It was long before the day of man upon the earth, tens of millions of years ago, that there lived in California the trees the fossil remains of which are found in the auriferous gravels.

Nothing is yet known of the animal life of that far-away time, but it may be supposed that mammals like those in the forests to the south may have lived up around Grass Valley.

Dr. Ralph W. Chaney, of the Carnegie Institution, sometime ago contributed an entertaining article to the Boston Transcript in regard to the expansion of geological knowledge by findings on old mine sites of the state. He pointed out that not only gold has been uncovered but ledges of rock containing fossil leaves, fruits and wood, less valuable in the markets of the world but of incalculable significance to students of the earth's history.

Dr. Chaney learned in his study that as recently as 1908 there was recovered millions in the center of the You Bet diggings. For a while the low price of gold made it unprofitable to carry on extensive mining operations. As the writer says, the question must have arisen many times in the minds of old timers in the hills of the Sierra Nevada after the flood of the gold boom had ebbed, as to whether there would ever again arise the tented cities of the past, and whether great streams of water would cut once more into the gravel cliffs, seeking the yellow fragments which man has always valued.

The Boston man continues: "Then came a change in the gold values as direct result of unsettled money conditions throughout the world. From $20.67 an ounce the price of gold shot up to $35 almost overnight. Again it became profitable to work California placer mines, and today they are filled with men, with streams of water, with excitement. Another gold rush is under way."

In the early days of mining at You Bet and other diggings large pieces of petrified wood, some of which weigh many tons, was more than balanced by the fact that around the fossil trees the gravel was exceptionally rich in gold. Washed along the channels of ancient streams and deposited as drift wood, the tree trunks formed catchment basins where fragments of gold were lodged.

Without realizing that they were contributing to science, the forty-niners became collectors of fossil plants, that is, paleobotanists. With the revival of mining in late years new fossil-bearing layers have been discovered by the miners.

Supervisors Manuel Francis, Half Moon Bay, chairman of the board, and Al J. Witt of Daly City pledged their support to the fiesta and said they believed the entire board would cooperate wholeheartedly in the plan.

Several of the proposals for the celebration included the holding of a fair on acreage adjacent to the Tanforan race course; a pageant; a carnival; horse show; livestock exhibit and numerous others.

Each representative present was requested to see that a committee of three or four from each city and section.

HORSEMEN ARE SURE NEW RACING STRIP IS SAFEST

Track Will Not Do Injury To Either Feet Or Legs Of Valued Runners

Horsemen are predicting the new racing strip at Tanforan will be the safest course in the country. Care taken in the laying out of the mile oval, under the personal direction of J. W. Marchbank, is expected to result in something owners and trainers are ever looking for—a track that does no injury to either the feet or the legs of their highly valued runners.

Plenty of tests will be made of the course prior to the opening of the spring meeting on Saturday, April 20, and the promise is made all will be in ship-shape for the sport at the pioneer racing plant of the Pacific Coast. The base for the strip has been almost completely and the settling of the soil is under way.

Contractors James Ringrose and Pete Anderson, who are remodeling the grandstand, erecting an addition to the Tanforan Clubhouse and making other improvements, are also carrying out the ideas of directing owner Marchbank in the making of the track itself, giving ample lawn space in front of the grandstand and clubhouse.

Almost through its entire length the new front stretch will be identical with the old training course, which was separated from the old main course front stretch by a diach, but at the top of the long lane the horses will run on the filled-in trench.

Contractor Ringrose said today a novel apparatus of decent design was being used in the work on the front stretch. The machine not only deposits the soil but packs it at the same time, thus making the foundation over the old ditch as solid as at any other place in the strip.

When the time comes for the top dressing only the best loam will be employed. Silt that is available will be carefully distributed and experts declare it cannot miss in making the track remarkably resilient.

COMMITTEE WILL REVIEW PLANS

The Daly City Recreation and Improvement Club held its regular meeting Tuesday evening of this week in the City Hall.

The various committees rendered reports of progress.

A committee was appointed to meet with the P. T. A. organizations in the Crocker tract at their next meeting to get the idea of the members as to the most suitable locations for play grounds in that section.

It was suggested that the Planning and Advisory Board of the club get together and investigate and review each project thoroughly, so that plans can be made in regard to the proposed bond issue.

All citizens who are interested in securing improvements for our city are urgently requested to be present at these meetings, which are held every Tuesday evening in the City Hall at 8:30 p. m.

LOCAL KNIGHTS GET INTO ACTION

Daly City Council, No. 2712, Knights of Columbus, has joined actively and enthusiastically in the Knights of Columbus Mobilization for Catholic Action Movement, being conducted during the next ten days by 2500 councils of the order in the United States and Canada.

Teams of officers and volunteer workers from the ranks of the local council are engaged in calling on eligible Catholic men of this community, to enroll them as members of the Knights of Columbus; and to take a definite part in the Catholic Action program of the society in California.

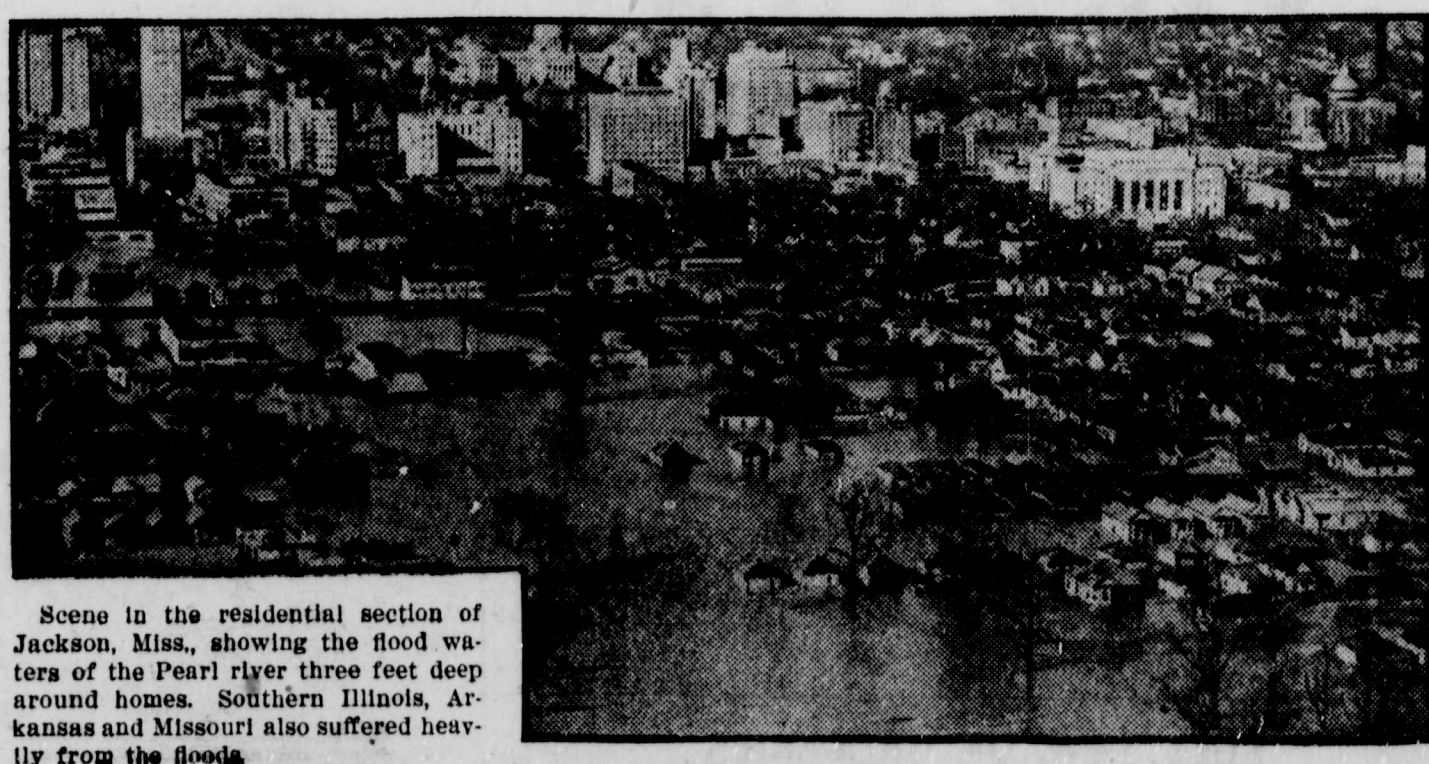

The local council has been allotted a definite quota to be attained during the mobilization campaign; and the K. of C. officers and members of this city are confident of achieving the objective set for them by the state and international leaders.

VISITORS AT NAPA

Mrs. Mary White of Theta avenue and Mr. and Mrs. E. Foss of Los Banos avenue motored to Napa, Friday last, visited with Mrs. White's daughter, Mrs. Bessie Cinnamon.

Later they motored to Yountville, where they visited Mr. Art Kensler, formerly of San Diego avenue, who is a patient in the Veterans Hospital.

FINAL PHASE OF BUILDING IS NOW BEGUN AT EXPO

Construction Work Being Rushed On All Federal And State Exhibits

With the opening of the California Pacific International Exposition only two months off, work on this spectacular show entered its final phase at San Diego this week with activity in all departments under the maximum pressure.

Construction of the United States building, costing $125,000 and housing the exhibitions of the federal government, will begin at once. An additional $200,000 will be expended on the government's exhibit.

On all construction jobs, at least two eight hours shifts are operating to assure everything being in readiness for the formal openings of the exposition, May 29. The Ford building, largest of new construction and costing $2,000,000, is now beyond the foundation stage. Forms for the retaining walls of the great outdoor Ford Music Bowl are now in and steel is being installed. Forms for footings under the stage of the bowl are being placed.

The Bank of America's building and the Spanish Village are completed. The fifteen hacienda type bungalows, which make up the House of Pacific Relations, where representatives of foreign governments will be quartered, are ready for occupancy.

The ten 90-foot trusses which will support the roof of the $90,000 California State building were swung into place this week. The state itself and several counties will exhibit here. Trusses are being raised at the Palace of Travel and Transportation. Construction here is above the first floor. The Standard Oil Company of California has indicated it will begin construction of its $100,000 building a few days. General grading of the grounds is 75 per cent completed. Landscaping is finished, except where construction makes it advisable to defer it until buildings are ready.

Installation of exhibitions in the Palace of Foods and Beverages was started this week by Coca-Cola Company, Challenge Cream and Butter Association, Globe Mills, Standard Brands and other exhibitors.

Heads of the General Housing Administration's activities of the several western states were notified that the FHA exhibition will be in addition to the departmental displays in the Federal Building. The FHA display is designed to show how the public may profit from the National Housing Act.

The special events department has reported that 114 special days for organized groups have been arranged. These include many fraternal organizations of large membership such as Native Sons and Daughters of California, September 9; United Daughters of the Confederacy, July 19; Daughters of the American Revolution, June 14; several veterans organizations each have days, as has the national guard, business and labor groups.

"FOUR MEN A-FISHING WENT"

Last Saturday afternoon a fishing party consisting of M. Johnson, Roy Kelly, B. J. Adams and C. F. Rodenberger boarded the sturdy, high-powered launch belonging to Mr. Johnson at the Marina and set a course for the fishing grounds, off the shore of Paradise Cove, in Marin County.

After trolling for about three hours without getting a strike, good fortune came their way and the fish began to take the lure and the fun began. Although limits were not caught, nevertheless eleven strippers were taken, running from 8½ pounds on up to 21 pounds. White, red tipped plugs and wobblers were used as a lure.

"He gets em Charley" Rodenberger carried away the honors of the day by hooking the 21-pounder. A fine day's fishing and a very fine boat to fish from. What a day.

PERSHING P. T. A. TO ELECT OFFICERS

The regular meeting of the General Pershing P. T. A. will be held next Tuesday, at 2 p. m. in the General Pershing school.

There will be election of officers and every one present will be able to voice an opinion in regards to the Crocker tract play grounds.

All citizens who are interested are cordially invited to attend this meeting.

Undergoes Operation

Mrs. P. V. Callaghan of Westlake avenue is confined to University of California Hospital, where she will undergo a serious operation. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Her mother, Mrs. J. Moran of Berkeley, is staying at the Callaghan home during her absence.

TURKEY DINNER HONORS MOTHER

Mrs. O. Osinghaus was guest of honor, Thursday of last week, at a surprise turkey dinner, with all the trimmings, given by her daughter, Mrs. C. Wright, at the home of Mrs. Osinghaus on Irvington street in celebration of her birthday.

The table was prettily decorated in pink and green favors and candy baskets. A huge basket of spring flowers occupied the center of the table. Mrs. Osinghaus received many lovely gifts. Those present were: Mrs. L. Gernhardt, Mrs. E. Johnston and daughter Beatrice, Mrs. H. Wolter and grand-daughter Marjie Lou, Mrs. R. Brauns, Mrs. Minnie Seitz and Mr. Osinghaus. Several other friends called during the afternoon to extend their congratulations.

TAKE GIRL SCOUT TRAINING COURSE

Mrs. A. Eason, Mrs. R. Poole, Mrs. A. Chesney, and Mrs. M. Boyle have enrolled for the General Girl Scout Training Course, which is being held in San Francisco.

This is a standard course arranged by the National Training Committee, and when completed, will enable these women to become Girl Scout leaders, and organize Girl Scout troops in Daly City. This will meet the need for normal recreation opportunities for girls between the ages of 10 and 18 years.

HONORED GUEST AT BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Agnes Wood entertained a group of friends at her home on Mission circle, Monday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. M. Smith of Irvington street, who was celebrating her birthday.

A delightful afternoon was spent in playing "Dutch whist." Mrs. Smith winning first prize, Mrs. Myrtle Domenici second and Mrs. B. Meritt the "booby."

After the game dainty refreshments were served the following guests: Mesdames M. Smith, B. Merritt, D. Wood, J. Hedvall, K. Brown, A. Romer and M. Domenici.

COUNTY MILITARY REPRESENTATIVE

Mr. F. A. Bloom, City Hall, Burlingame, has been appointed the Military Training Camps Association representative for San Mateo County. He will be in charge of the association's activities in enrolling suitable young men for the 1935 C. M. T. camps.

The Military Training Camps Association was organized in 1916 to aid in the selection of officers for the National Army. Since the World War it has been active in the cause of national defense, and particularly in the enrollment of C. M. T. students.

Combined Celebration

Fernanda Sereni of Evergreen avenue celebrated her thirteenth birthday and Glen Smith of Peoria street his fourteenth birthday at a combined party given Friday evening of last week at the Sereni home on Evergreen avenue.

The evening was spent in playing games and dancing, after which refreshments were served.

The guests included: Violet Prziborsky, Helen Smith, Dolores Silveris, Gratia Continolo, Rosella Continolo, Charles Murry, Buster Loomis, Raymond Ming, Robert Capps, Stanley Sheridan and Jack Smith.

SERVE PIG DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. S. Passafiume of San Diego avenue entertained a group of the members of Mission post drill team of the American Legion at a roast pig dinner, Sunday.

The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Dodd and daughter Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. C. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. J. Stang, Mr. and Mrs. C. Scabrau and daughter Lois, Mrs. Mary Pack, Mr. and Mrs. W. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. F. Gilmore and children, Mr. Jack Smyth and Mr. Tom Casey.

FIRST MEETING OF SECOND AREA

Livermore Session To Have Interesting Program And Addresses

(Lesley M. Hill, Pub. Chairman)

The first meeting of the Second Area of the Department of California, American Legion, will be held in the Veterans Memorial Hall in Livermore, Sunday, March 31, at 10 a. m.

An interesting and instructing program has been arranged for the day, including an address by Dr. Frank B. Brewer, manager of the Veterans Administration Facility at Livermore; an address by Department Adjutant James K. Fisk, and an address by Mrs. Carrie T. Baade, president of the Department of California, American Legion Auxiliary, during the morning session.

The morning session will adjourn at 12 o'clock for lunch and to visit the parade.

The afternoon session will start at 2 o'clock sharp and will adjourn at 3:45 o'clock. Department Commander Archie Clonson will address the meeting during the afternoon session, following which there will be a drum and bugle corps concert.

An entertaining program has been arranged for the Sons of the Legion, as follows: Morning, games at the Grammar School. Noon, parade and lunch. 2 p. m., initiation and business session in the Grammar School.

Visiting hours at the Veterans Hospital will be from 3 to 5 p. m.

Each district chairman is expected to serve on the area committee. If the district chairmen cannot attend the meeting they are requested to appoint a member to serve in their place.

Death Of Aged Resident

Mrs. Ellen Dugan, 89, of Hillcrest Drive, passed away Saturday following a brief illness. She was a native of Canada.

The deceased was the mother of the late Edward Dugan. She is survived by her grandsons, Edward and Clarence Dugan.

The funeral services were conducted from the mortuary chapel of W. C. Lasswell & Co., Wednesday morning at 8:45 o'clock; thence to St. Michael's church on Broad street in Ocean View, where a mass was said for the repose of her soul, commencing at 9 o'clock.

Interment was in Holy Cross cemetery.

RELIGIOUS GROUP HAVE TAFFY PULL

A group of 24 young people from Calvary Baptist Church on Mission street met at the home of Miss Doris Davis of Niantic avenue, Saturday evening, for their regular Saturday night "Deeper Life" gathering.

After a session of fun and laughter with games, Rev. Miles Dawson led in a fine devotional period. This was followed by a "taffy pull" and serving of refreshments.

OLD RESIDENT PASSES

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning from the W. C. Lasswell parlors for Mrs. Ida Van Heusden of 43 Woodrow street.

She leaves to mourn her loss, a husband, John Van Heusden, and three daughters, Mrs. Catherine Foreman, Mrs. Ida Hanley and Mrs. Nell Dorrence.

Mrs. Van Heusden, who had made her home in Daly City since 1908, passed away suddenly Tuesday afternoon from a heart attack. Cremation was at Cypress Lawn cemetery.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES

Mrs. Catherine Staples, who formerly resided on San Diego avenue in Daly City for several years, suffered a paralytic stroke last week in Los Angeles, where she has been making her home with her daughter, Mrs. S. Cameron, and her son, Albert Staples.

Word was received here Tuesday that Mrs. Staples expired that day.

FULL LINE OF GROCERIES

Extreme Chic in This Frock

PATTERN 9986

If you've been following the latest trend in style news, you know that the classic shirtwaist frock is still one of Fashion's pets. And here's a delightful version of it. The sleeves and shoulders are cut in one to give a nice smooth line, and make them easy as a, b, c to fit. The bodice with a trim slot-pleat at the back to match the chic of its buttoned front closing is smartly gathered to the yoke—the long skirt seams end in jaunty inverted pleats—and the patch pockets follow the latest mode by being rounded instead of square. Make it of a rough crepe and put an impudent little contrasting bow at the throat for added chic!

Pattern 9986 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3½ yards 39 inch fabric.

Complete, diagrammed sew chart included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

Send your order to Sewing Circle Pattern department, 232 West Eighteenth street, New York.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment, from which, by McNamara's orders, she is removed to the chief's home. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000. Fearful of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, sound asleep, curled up on the guest-room bed.

"Did your men scout the street in front of this house before pulling up in front of it?" asked McNamara sharply.

"Certainly. We circled the block twice."

"Feed our Nance, Lanny," McNamara urged happily. "She's a smart girl. How's the shoulder, dearie?"

"Fine. It'll be O. K. in another week."

"So am I," Mr. McNamara grinned. "Flynn's home eating his dinner now, and Angelotti must be on guard in that alley. I'm going to mistake Angelotti for a suspicious character, lurking there in the dark—and put a mark on him so I can recognize him later. He just can't stand to mix it with me, and get recognized, of course, so when he runs I'll fire in the air. He'll know who I am but he'll never suspect I know who he is."

McNamara bade Nance, Lanny and Stephen goodnight and hurried away in a taxi. A block from his home he alighted and walked down the side of the street opposite his own house. He was whistling softly as he came abreast of Angelotti's hiding place, where he turned at right angles, apparently with the intention of crossing in the middle of the street to his own house. A step from the curb he halted, turned, bent his head in a listening attitude, then stepped resolutely into the alley.

"Who's there?" he demanded. Receiving no answer, he got out a small flashlight; he seemed to have some difficulty flashing it on, for he cursed softly, and suddenly a beam from the flashlight illuminated his own face for an instant, but long enough, he decided, to permit the watchful Angelotti to recognize him. The alley was empty, but in a little garden strip a large syringa bush grew, and instinct warned the chief that his prey was behind it. So he walked past it, his flashlight held close to the bush, and as he had anticipated, it was snatched from him. As he turned, one of his stout legs was jerked from under him by a man crouching low; so, before permitting himself to topple backward, McNamara dropped his good right arm to the level of his knee and swung a short, stabbing punch. He felt a cheekbone and the side of a nose; so he punched again, a little higher up, and then fell over backward. Instantly his assailant rose and fled like a deer.

"Halt! I'm an officer," McNamara shouted, and fired into the air. But the running man did not even hesitate. In the morning he sent for Angelotti for a report on a certain case, and was charmed to note a faintly lemonish spot on the Italian's left cheek and a very noticeable iridescence under the left eye. The chief grinned. "What does the other fellow look like, Angle?" he queried innocently. "He couldn't have been more'n a flyweight or he'd have done more damage! How come you let some runt one-two you like that?"

"It was a dame I picked up for drunkenness," Angelotti lied with the glibness of long practice.

Following some discussion of the report, McNamara dismissed him, and sat down to decide what to do with Nance Belden. That Flynn and Angelotti were keeping his house under surveillance he knew now; undoubtedly they would enter his house at the earliest favorable opportunity.

The chief wondered what he would do if he stood in the shoes of his two detectives. "I'd wait for a night when I wouldn't be disturbed for a couple of hours," he decided. "What night would that be? Why, Thursday night, when the board of police commissioners meet and I am in attendance there. Stephen will make his usual early evening call—and as soon as he leaves the house those two will slip into it. The cellar door, of course, I'll make it easy for them. I'll leave the door unlocked."

He concluded that until then, Nance would be safe at Lanny's house. In the meantime, however, he must arrange to get her out of the city at an early date. The detectives were both absolutely satisfied Lanny had once given Nance sanctuary for a brief period; trust them, therefore, to keep an eye on Lanny's house.

He had in his office a telephone line that did not connect with the private exchange system in the central station, so he called Lanny on his phone at Doctor Burt's office now.

"Dan speaking, Lanny. Tomorrow morning you had better buy our pet nuisance a lot of clothes, so she'll be all ready to get out of town when I send for her. I think I'll have to fly her out and down to Tia Juana, Lower California."

"What will she do there?"

"I don't know. We'll think about that when she gets there. At least my two dicks won't be there and Tia Juana is one place where that saddle nose of hers won't surprise anybody. And when she acts rough and tough in Tia Juana nobody will pay any attention to her. They have experts down there in that line."

"I'll think that Tia Juana stunt over," Lanny decided. "It has possibilities. Is there a good hospital there?"

"I don't think so. Why?"

"You numbskull, Dan. McNamara! We have to find a quiet hospital where we can have her poor nose operated on."

"Well, if we can get her beeper restored and change that black bob of hers to a movie-tone gold, she could take Flynn and Angelotti out, to dinner and they'd never suspect her."

"Steve says her nose must be operated on first. Her present state of dissociated personality probably started in an inferiority complex, and the inferiority complex probably arose out of the knowledge that her nose made her unlovely. When it's safe to bring her back to this city, Steve will take her soul out and look at it, dust it off, put it back and do a little Jack Horner."

"Can he do that?" McNamara's heavy voice was freighted with awe.

"He can, provided he can find a starting point for his investigation into her past life. There is always a reason for a dissociated personality. The ground for the mental shock that causes it is usually prepared long before the psychosis occurs. Rebellious thoughts, unhappiness, brooding—all these eventually have a serious effect upon sensitive and highly intelligent people and particularly, women of the hysterical type."

"All women are hysterical," McNamara said with conviction.

"You're a dear boob, Dan. Eight women out of ten can throw a fit of hysterics as easily as you'd break an egg, particularly if there is a man to be impressed. They never simulate hysterics to impress a woman, however, because they know better. However, there are women who have hysterics that are real, but it has been the experience of this office that most of these are just a trifle balmy—neurotics."

"Well, you get our girl a trousseau and warn her to keep away from the window and not to answer the doorbell, or do any telephoning, or leave the house until she has my permission. I don't expect she'll obey, so tonight when you go home have some hysterics to impress her."

"Dan, dear, I couldn't. I'm hard as a picnic egg. Did you stage your little comedy after leaving us last night?"

"I did—and it worked out exactly."

"Good gracious. Well, I'm busy. Good-by."

Nance Belden's personalities were a source of keen professional interest to Lanny, who regretted that for the present Doctor Burt was unable to share her observations with her. She had, as yet, had no opportunity for ascertaining anything regarding the girl's past history, but she had a suspicion that Nance had had advantages superior to most girls.

Her hands were the very first thing (with the exception of her poor wrecked nose) that Lanny had noticed. They were soft, shapely, small and well kept, decidedly not the hands of a factory girl. While her vocabulary was a trifle "salty," running at times to the idiom of the ill bred and ignorant, her voice was soft, with well bred intonations. Her clothing, on the occasion of her visit to Stephen Burt's office, had been in Lanny's judgment, in splendid taste; rich but not flashy, up to the mode but not beyond it. Then, too, Nance had a slow, leisurely walk, she knew how to enter a room, she was sure of herself at all times without display assurance. To Lanny, the girl, in his abanement moments, appeared to be a amateurish, a bit of a showoff, unreal.

Thus far she had observed the girl only in this showoff phase of her personality. She was amazed, therefore, on coming home from the office after her conversation with McNamara, to find her a complete changeling. As she entered the house she caught the odor of cooking, and going into the kitchen, she discovered Nance, with one of Lanny's kitchen aprons on her, preparing dinner.

"Good evening, Lanny dear," she saluted her hostess. "It occurred to me it must be a very great trial to you, coming home tonight after night from the office, tired, and having to prepare dinner for yourself. I'm sure you're too tired most of the time to prepare more than a very sketchy meal, and that isn't good for you." She smiled. "So I thought I'd have a nice dinner for you."

"Now, I call that real sweet. Nance."

"My name isn't Nance, Lanny. It's Penelope."

"Penelope what?"

"Penelope Gatlin. Silly old Lanny, how could you forget?"

"You've placed your finger on my dread secret, Penelope. When I'm tired my memory fails me."

Lanny knew that during the day a psychological door had opened and Nance Belden, otherwise personality B, the abnormal, had walked through it and emerged Penelope Gatlin, or personality A, the normal. Also, she knew now that Penelope Gatlin probably had more or less amnesia for her former personality as Nance Belden. Lanny had heard Doctor Burt discuss such rare cases and she glowed with pride in the knowledge that at least he had secured a perfect specimen.

"I decided we wouldn't have broiled lamb chops, Lanny," the girl went on brightly, "so I've made a ragout."

"You mean, in good old Americanese, you've concocted an Irish stew."

"You're so amusing, Lanny. A stew, of course. The difference between a stew and a ragout is entirely geographic. A ragout in France, an Irish stew in the United States."

"Have you lived in France?"

"Eight years, Lanny. Went to school in Switzerland and learned French there."

"Are you people French?"

"I think I was there alone." The girl appeared puzzled. "I don't remember my mother, but I had a father. He was such a dear, but he's dead."

"Were you happy there?"

"No, I was perfectly miserable."

"Why?"

"Because my father wasn't with me. We'd been such pals."

"But you must have lived with somebody."

"There was Laurette, the cook, and Babette, the maid."

"Did you graduate?"

"No, I left school when father died. He was killed in a motor accident en route to Europe. I've always had a feeling he was coming over to see his Penelope. He loved me very much, Lanny. He was adorable. He used to tell me that I was all that made his life bearable. Somebody—I forgot who—told me he wasn't my real father, that I was a foundling he adopted. I wouldn't believe that at first, but when I read his will I knew it was so."

"What sort of woman was his wife—or did he have one?"

"I haven't the slightest idea, but I remember the will stated very positively that he had settled with her, that she had accepted the settlement in full satisfaction of her dower rights, and he made my income from the trust just sufficient to support me decently until I should come of age. He said in his will that he did this not because of any lack of affection for me, but because if he made me an excessive allowance, his divorced wife would have control of it during my minority. He must have despised her."

"Well, if she could have control of your income during your minority, she must have been your adopted mother," the practical Lanny reasoned. "And you must have lived with her following the divorce. That's why you didn't see your father in Europe. You must have been there with your foster mother, Laurette, the cook, and Babette, the maid, argue an establishment. Do you remember everything that has happened to you since that day Dan McNamara brought you to Doctor Burt's office?"

"Perfectly."

"Ever have funny thoughts about it?"

The girl stared at her shrewdly. "How strange that you should ask that question, Lanny. I do have funny thoughts. Sometimes I'm horrified at the memory and could die of shame; at other times it seems perfectly all right, but those are the times when I've been nervous and sleepless; sometimes I think there's something wrong with me, because people often refer to me as Nance Belden and to things I've done and which I know very well I haven't done. And yet it seems to me sometimes as if I had—just a wraith of memory, like an old dream. But still I'm strong and healthy."

"But a little given to spells of nervousness?"

"I'm moody." The girl seemed interested in herself to an unusual degree. "Some days I like to do things that are perfectly intolerable to me on other days. Some days I'm so democratic I could go out to dinner with a garbage man—other times I can't bear to be with anybody but nice people." She sighed and turned to inspect her savory ragout. "I wish I knew what I wanted in life and I wish I knew somebody that wanted me. Of course I can pay my way through life, but it's terrible to be lonely, Lanny."

She faced Lanny again. "Now, when I decided to cast myself on your hospitality, Lanny, it seemed to me the most natural thing in the world to do. But today I'm covered with confusion. I've deliberately imposed myself upon your peace and privacy."

"Listen here, Penny, my dear. You aren't the only lonely woman in this world. Believe it or not, the first spring buttercup isn't a bit more welcome in old lady Lanning's house than you are."

The lost one beamed upon her. "I believe that Lanny. Oh, Lanny, when I'm happy I'm so happy and when I'm wretched I'm so wretched."

"You think too much about that nose of yours, my poor child."

The girl's hand flew to that organ (automatically, Lanny thought) as if she would hide it. "Isn't it terrible?" she quavered. "I'm so ugly nobody can ever love me."

TO KEEP GLORY OF GRECIAN ART

Steps for Preservation of the Acropolis.

Warned by a large landslide that the walls of the Acropolis are weakening, modern Athens is planning to reinforce with new buttresses the north and east walls of this ruin-crowned plateau which dominates the city.

It will be aeons before mere weather fissures can destroy this time-defying collection of ruins, which has survived the attacks of barbarians, gunpowder and lightning, according to the National Geographic society.

Although greatly changed from the once magnificent temples with delicately colored friezes above glistening columns, the remaining edifices on the Acropolis still awe the beholder into contemplation of the days when this plateau was covered with the most beautiful art of Greek antiquity.

The Acropolis of Athens looms beside the modern city as a rugged limestone plateau, approximately 1,000 by 500 feet. About 512 feet above sea level, it is an excellent vantage point. From it one can look across busy Athens' white houses, vineyards and groves of figs and olives to the encircling purple hills, scarred with white gashes of marble quarries, and far beyond them to the glittering blue Aegean sea.

Partly girdled by strong walls, the Acropolis afforded splendid protection to early Athenians fleeing from land invaders and pirates. Two parallel "long walls," built about 250 yards apart and approximately 60 feet high, insured communication at all times with Piraeus, approximately six miles away, which, then as now, was Athens' harbor and a source of food supply. In return for the protection of the Acropolis, grateful Athenians erected on it temples and statues sacred to Athena Polias, "guardian of the state."

Between 445 B. C. and 431 B. C. the Acropolis was at the height of its grandeur. While a treaty held the restless Spartans at bay, the esthetic ruler, Pericles, commissioned the sculptor Phidias to beautify the sanctuary.

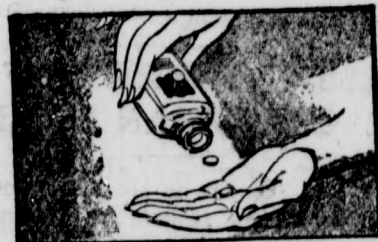

The Acropolis in its full glory must have been tremendously impressive. One ascended to it through a stately marble gate-house, the Propylaea. There, within a short compass, stood the sanctuary of Artemis, and the delicate airy-looking temple of Athena Victory. The Erechtheum, with the roof of its porch supported lightly on the erect heads of marble dancing girls, was not completed until later.

Crowning the summit of the Acropolis loomed the Parthenon, with seventeen strong, simple columns on each side, eight at each end. To view its lonely ruins drenched in moonlight is to realize why it has been considered the "most majestic of man's architectural achievements."

3. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in a third of a glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat soreness almost instantly.

HARD FOR LIP READERS

Deaf students of a Madison avenue school of lip reading are told at the start to watch not only the lips but the tongue, throat muscles and the expression of the entire face. There are many problems. Thirteen words look, on the lips, like "bad" ("man," "mad," "band," etc.); twelve look exactly like "fade" ("vein," "feigned," etc.); "juice," "chews," and "shoes" look alike, and so do "honor" and "otter" (although you can be fairly sure that it's "honor").

We were interested to learn that the word "king" is the hardest word to lip-read in the English language: the "k" and the "ng" are deep in the throat, and the short "i" hardly moves the lips at all. Men's lips are harder to read than women's, because men's lips are less flexible.—The New Yorker.

LARGE CLASS IS INITIATED HERE BY LOCAL COURT

The members of Court St. Mary, No. 1155 of the Catholic Daughters of America presented a class of sixteen candidates for initiation, in Eagles Hall last Monday evening.

Mrs. May Q. Lillenthal of Berkeley, the state grand regent, was an honored guest and complimented the officers on their splendid exemplification of our beautiful ritual and on the fine large class initiated.

The class included: Mesdames Ida Kirchen, Lorraine Wall, Catherine Mullen, Hannah Sullivan, Victorine Lombard, Rose McNab, Jeanette Lachini, Delia Kelly, Lena Walker, Hattie Kelly, Anne Vargas, Florence Baumsteiger and Lucy Fahey; Misses Ida May Lasswell, Pearl Roberts and Lucy J. Fahey.

The following visitors were introduced and made welcome: Chaplin Father J. Doyle, State Grand Regent May Lillenthal, Mrs. Anita K. Mayer, chairman of district deputies of Northern California; Mrs. Erma D. Vizzard, district deputy; Mrs. Emma Ebertz, past district deputy; Miss E. Sheehan, grand regent of Court San Francisco and delegation of members; Mrs. Gertrude Morton, grand regent of Junipera Serra Court, San Mateo; Miss Elizabeth Finn, past grand regent of Junipera Serra Court and delegation; a delegation from Court Salesian; Miss B. McDonald, past grand regent of Golden Gate Court; Miss Agnes Supple, past grand regent of Notre Dame Court; Mrs. Veronica Farrell, organizer for Court Golden Gate and for Court St. Mary, for that evening.

At the conclusion of her inspiring talk the State Grand Regent was presented with a handsome basket of growing plants by Monitor Ida Forrest, conveying to the visitor with the love of the presiding grand regent, Elizabeth Wettstein, and the members of the court upon her first official visit to the Daly City court.

The ritualistic work was unusually inspiring, put on by officers, all of whom wore white silk gowns and shoes of a matching color.

The meeting was adjourned to partake of refreshments served by the social committee.

TREE PLANTING AT STATE FAIR GROUND

Rapid progress is now being made on the tree planting program destined to make the California State Fair grounds at Sacramento rival in beauty California's famous state capitol park.

Fast growing shade trees have been set out in the spacious lawns fronting the main horticultural building and along the principal roadways. Over two thousand trees are now being carefully nursed to give sheltering shade to the thousands of State Fair visitors.

Benches sufficient to seat 7000 people at one time will also be ready for the opening of the ten day fair on August 31.

APRIL CHRONOLOGY

(By Maude Larue Ives)

April has a name that is especially fitting, for it comes from a Latin word meaning "to open." It is one of the loveliest months of the year, for it is the time of opening of buds. The special flower of April is the daisy, and its gem is the diamond.

April is the fourth month of the year. Originally, in the time of the Romans, it had but twenty-nine days, but when the calendar was revised in the time of Caesar, it was found that there were ten extra days to be distributed among the months, and of these April received one. It is thus one of the thirty day months and so crowded is it with nature's activity that no other month in the year makes a greater change in the appearance of the out of door world.

At the beginning of April, in northern climes, snow is often lingering in the hollows, and frequently a sharp frost comes and binds fast the little brooks that have begun to be free from winter's shackles. But April's sun is warm and bright, and no frost and snow can long hold out against it. Early wild flowers push their way through the grass of the meadow or the thick forest carpet of last year's dead leaves, and on lawn and in gardens the crocuses and snow drops appear. The birds have set out on their northward journey, and almost all things which make summer delightful are putting in an appearance.

This transition month is especially known for its changeable weather. Occasionally there are days so cold that they seem to have been left behind by winter, or days so hot that they are advance couriers of summer; but the most distinctive feature of April is its showers. Changes from flashing sunlight to pouring rain are frequent.

April has played a curious part in United States history, for nearly every war in which this country has been involved has begun in this month—the Revolution, the Mexican War, the War of Secession, the Spanish-American War and the World War. This last war did not commence in that month; but in April the United States entered it.

April Fools' Day, or all Fools' Day, is a special day looked forward to by children by reason of the sanction to perform mischievous pranks. Easter almost always falls in April, and fittingly, too, for it is the symbol of that broader new life of which April represents one phase. Many states of our Union have set aside one day, Arbor Day, for the planting of trees.

"April is here! Listen, a bluebird is caroling near! Low and sweet is the song he sings, As he sits in the sunshine with folded wings."—Rexford.

LESSON SERMON OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Thou, O Lord, shalt endure for ever; and thy remembrance unto all generations." These words from Psalms comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, March 31, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Reality." Included among the Scriptural selections will be: "And the disciples came, and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables? He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given. . . . For verily I say unto you, That many prophets and righteous men have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them" (Matthew 13: 10, 11, 17).

The following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included: "What is termed material sense can report only a mortal temporary sense of things, whereas spiritual sense can bear witness only to Truth. . . . Spiritual ideas lead up to their divine origin, God, and to the spiritual sense of being" (p. 298).

B. Milano was the contractor on the splendid new building recently constructed for David Arata at Colma.

Jack Gray, a local boy, administered a first round knockout to Tony Rojas at Dreamland last Friday.

George F. Henry has filed his nomination papers for the office of city trustee, bringing the total number of candidates up to four.

Nick Athanasopoulos, who was for several years employed at Peter's Restaurant, is back on the job again. Nick is now married, and has a fine baby boy.

Miss Alice Elmers received a fracture of the hand last Sunday afternoon when the machine in which she was riding with her father ran into a post. Marshal Doyle had Miss Elmers taken to St. Luke's Hospital, and after treatment she was able to return to her home.

EIGHTH DISTRICT MEET ATTENDED

Daly City Unit 410 of the American Legion was well represented at the Eighth District Americanism rally held in Burlingame Sunday.

President Marcie Trier and the Americanism chairman, Grace Hill, attended the morning business session. In the afternoon there was a short parade. There were massed colors from all posts and units of the district.

Allen I. Ward, attorney of San Mateo, gave a talk on Americanism from the grand stand following the introduction of distinguished guests.

Exhibition drills were put on by Occidental Post No. 500 Oriental Band; San Mateo County Council Auxiliary drill team; San Mateo County Council Legion drum and bugle corps; Daly City Unit Junior Auxiliary drill team; Greater Mission Unit drill team, and San Mateo Post rifle squad.

The music was furnished by the San Mateo Scouts Band.

All honors of the afternoon went to the Daly City Unit Junior Auxiliary drill team. Their snappy red and white uniforms and marvelous execution of their team work received many compliments and long and loud applause.

SOME QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Some Little Known Matters That Should Prove of General Interest

(By Maude Larue Ives)

Question: Who was the nominee of the Democratic party defeated by Calvin Coolidge in the election of 1924?

Answer: John William Davis.

Question: What is the origin of the slang expressions, "You're the goat," or "I'm the goat"?

Answer: Of old the high priest confessed the sins of the Children of Israel, putting them on the head of a scapegoat and sending him into the wilderness. A scapegoat is defined, thus: "A goat upon whose head were symbolically placed the sins of the people, after which he was suffered to escape into the wilderness. Hence, a person or thing bearing blame for others."

Question: Where is Rainy Lake and what are some interesting facts about it?

Answer: It is located on the boundary between Ontario and Minnesota. Its southern end is about 125 miles north of Duluth, Minnesota, and about 150 miles west of the shore of Lake Superior. The lake is shaped roughly like a capital "L," each arm being approximately forty miles long and from three to eight miles wide. Its surface, though covering an area of more than 300 square miles, is so broken by hundreds of islands that the largest stretch of open water is hardly more than a mile wide.

The shores are rocky and are lined with cone bearing trees, which are being cut to supply the mills of Fort Francis, International Falls and other towns on the lake. Fish, especially pike and pickerel are plentiful. This lake region is also noted for bears, moose and other wild game. The surplus waters of the lake are carried by the Rainy River westward to the Lake of the Woods.

Question: What country produces the most raisins?

Answer: United States. California furnishes enough to supply the entire country and Canada.

Question: How large is Siberia?

Answer: It covers an area of 5,000,000 square miles, forming a country almost twice the size of the United States.

BUSINESS INDEX AT HIGH POINT

Bank of America's index of Far Western business during February reached the highest point since July of 1934, and with the exception of that one month, the highest level since February of 1932.

At 66.4, the February index was five per cent ahead of February 1934 and almost 17 per cent above February 1933, in addition to gaining over January of this year.

The index is based on weighted and seasonally adjusted carloadings, bank debits and electric power production. Reports of other business activities covered in the Bank of America Business Review bear out the showing of the index.

February bank debits gained 13½ per cent over the corresponding month last year. Employment in the California manufacturing industries increased 4.4 per cent. Retail sales were up 8.3 per cent.

The encouraging gains in Western building activity which were witnessed during the latter part of 1934 and in January of 1935 were well maintained in February. Building permits issued in 56 Western cities gained 56.7 per cent over the aggregate of the same cities in February of last year.

The index of the general level of California farm prices last month, at 91 per cent of the 1910-1915 average, was at the highest level since June of 1934 and gained almost six per cent over the preceding month. Particularly encouraging was the level of livestock prices, with beef selling up 54.8 per cent above the price level of February, 1934; hogs up 82.9 per cent; lambs up 2.8 per cent, and sheep up 38.5 per cent.

Brake Adjustment

After brakes have been relined or adjusted it is a good plan to run the car a few miles without using the brakes and then feel the drums.

If the drums are warm or hot the brakes are too tight and should be re-adjusted.

Building permit values for the year 1934 increased 11.1 per cent over 1933 according to the record of 215 cities compiled by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. In January, 1935, the values totaled $26,811,499, which was a 28.7 per cent and 5.1 per cent increase, respectively, over the totals of the comparative months in 1934 and 1933. Building activity in January gained 24.1 per cent over the December volume, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute. Both residential and non-residential expansion contributed to the unusual rise.

The office vacancy average as of January 1, 1935 stands at 26.39 per cent which is a decrease of .53 per cent since October 1, 1934, according to a recent survey made by the National Association of Building Owners and Managers. The study covered 1946 buildings in 39 cities.

Approximately $25,000,000 is the estimated Soviet purchasing program in this country for 1935, according to reports in the New York Times. Industrial and mining equipment will absorb the larger share of this sum, but a number of consumer items are to be included. The Amtorg Trading Corporation, official purchasing representative of the Soviet government, is reported to be interested in favorable cash prices rather than long term credits.

A special market report on apparel, prepared by McGreevy, Werring & Howell Company indicates increases in mail orders for the week ended February 23. Coat and suit departments had heavy orders for immediate delivery; millinery was active, while demands for sportswear continued to arrive in volume proportions.

A change of plus 9.10 per cent is shown in the electrical power production index of the New York Times for the week ended February 23 over the preceding week. The gain over the comparable week a year ago is 6.2 per cent.

For the fifth consecutive month the production of pig iron has increased, according to the magazine "Steel."

Employees of the steel industry and their families constitute about ten per cent of the total population of the steel making districts, according to a statement made by the American Iron and Steel Institute. The industry has approximately 400,000 employees; a payroll of over $455,000,000 during 1934, and pays federal, state and local taxes estimated at $80,000,000 yearly. Thirteen new banking offices opened in ten states in the past week, according to Banking Market, issued by Rand McNally & Co. The bulletin reports a continued decrease in bank failures.

Automobile production, according to Cram's estimate for the week ended February 23, rose to 108.7, an increase of 1.1 points over the preceding week and 5.6 points over the figure for the comparable week in 1934.

Out of the 34,927,121 automobiles in the world, 24,751,644 of them are in the United States, reports the American Automobile (overseas edition) in a recently completed survey. American-Canadian production of cars and trucks rose 46 per cent while exports from the same two nations were 99 per cent over the preceding year. In the United States, motorists bought more gas last year than ever before.

Bank debits as reported by the Federal Reserve Board for leading cities, for the week ended February 27, aggregated $6,634,000,000, which was a decline from the reported total of the preceding week. This was due in great part to the one full holiday occurring within the week. However, the figure was six per cent above the total for the corresponding week of last year which also included only five business days.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK

New Label Regulation: A new order, centering in NRA final authority over the use, suspension and withdrawal of labels has been issued by the NIRA. Code authorities remain the agencies delegated to issue and administer the use of labels, but no code authority will be permitted to take final action on denials, suspensions, withdrawals or restorations of labels without the approval of the compliance and enforcement director of the NRA label agency which will be designated by the director. Labels shall be issued within three business days after the receipt of the application and statement of compliance, except when the code authority may show the NRA label agency that reasonable cause exists for a further investigation. According to Division Administrator Prentiss L. Conley, in charge of textiles, and under whose direction a three months' study of label regulation was made, "the label has proved an effective and palatable instrument of enforcement under difficult conditions."

Graphic Arts Code Hearing: More than forty industries with special processes involving printing operations will be represented at the series of hearings to be held between March 7 and April 4. The purpose will be to obtain information and facts necessary to eliminate the overlaps and conflicts existing between the codes of these industries and the Graphic Arts Code.

Textile Planning Committee: The NIRA has appointed three of its members, A. D. Whiteside, Sidney Hillman and Leon Henderson, and the administrator of the textile division, Prentiss Conley, to serve on the new textile planning committee. The committee's work will be to formulate a long-time plan to adjust the relations of the cotton, silk, wool and rayon interests, remove differences due to code provisions and suggest means of keeping production within the absorption power of the market. The Textile Labor Relations Board and the Department of Labor will co-operate to the extent of their ability and will be kept informed of the work of the committee.

Clock Manufacturers Get Code: The code of the clock manufacturers went into effect on March 18. In asking for a code, the industry reported that under voluntary application of its code its employment had increased 39 per cent above the 1932 record and its factory payrolls, 72 per cent. The approved code carries maximum hour, minimum wage and standard labor provisions, in addition to requirements for the safety and health of workers, equality of homework and factory wages, and fair trade practices.

Apprentice Training Program: The federal committee on apprentice training has appointed forty state committees to approve apprentice contracts and to issue certificates to employers. Up to February 1, eighteen of these had completed arrangements. These committees have jurisdiction over the following states: Arizona, Colorado, Delaware, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Maryland, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Utah, Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming. Contracts between the state committees and employers are to insure apprentices thorough training, while avoiding the displacement of skilled workers.

Neckwear and Scarf Manufacturing Wage Rates: The NIRA has stayed through the first week of April the classified wage rate in the women's scarf and neckwear manufacturing industry, applicable to the central and western areas. A committee has been studying conditions under a former order. During the life of the stay, these areas must not pay rates more than 25 per cent below Eastern rates.

Homework Prohibition Stay Extended: A stay, expiring April 1, of the Outerwear Knitted Industry code prohibition of homework in hand knitting has been extended to May 15 by the NIRA. The original stay set up a homework commission to report by April 1 on the most practical method of enforcing the homework provisions of the code. The extension was ordered to give the commission sufficient time to make its studies.

Motor Vehicle Retailing Amendment: An improved method of obtaining and compiling statistics on which allowances are made for used cars and a change in the maximum reduction a dealer may make from the average sales price is to be discussed in a public hearing on a proposed amendment for the motor vehicle retailing trade. The statistics would be based on the better grade used vehicle.

"Relief" Coal Lowest Costs Cancelled: The special committee on lowest cost determination for the retail of solid fuel industry recently announced the cancellation of the lowest cost schedules established for the sales of so-called "relief" coal. The committee found that the sales of coal through relief agencies were not subject to the cost of advertising, selling or collecting and that no emergency existed in the conduct of such business.

NRA Blue Eagles Withdrawn: Five more NRA Blue Eagles have been withdrawn from western firms, it was announced recently by Donald Renshaw, western NRA regional director. The action was taken on recommendation of the western regional compliance council which has the same powers in the west that the National Compliance Council of Washington, has for the nation. One of the NRA insignia withdrawals was based on the theory in law on which the United States Supreme Court ruled in the so-called gold clause cases. This was the Golden Eagle Transcontinental Route, Inc., of Los Angeles, accused of paying agents more commission on ticket sales than the motor bus code specifies. The accused corporation's defense was that the payments were in accordance with a pre-existing contract. Other Blue Eagle withdrawals approved by Renshaw, were those of the Kirkpatrick Chevrolet Company of Baker, Oregon; Greenwood Cemetery Association of San Diego, California; Pearl Press, 567 California street, San Francisco; Kenton Lumber Mills, land, Oregon. The Regional Compliance Council's recommendations also included suggestions that NRA litigation counsel be given the cases for "such action as may be appropriate."

MUSTANGS LOSE TO HOME TEAM

Daly City A. C. won easily from the Mustangs, Sunday afternoon at Ocean View. Cassich pitching his second game for the local team, allowed but five scattered hits and striking out eleven men, won by a score of 7 to 0.

Pete Pasterini sure had the fans dizzy when he came up with a catch in left center field, completing one of the fastest double plays in many moons.

WHY CRITICIZE?

(By Al Gould)

Time after time I have heard supposedly smart baseball men who have been in the game for years criticize "Jeff" Martin's methods in handling his players. He has played hunches in the use of pitchers quite often, and the charge has been made that he don't know baseball, but I think the fact that he has won, and in doing so has come through with all the boys in good condition, testifies to his good judgment. "Jeff" is a hustler himself, and there are times when some of the boys on the team might have bogged down, but "Jeff" is the kind of a fellow who keeps them up. He won't let a player flop.

It is my conviction that "Jeff" should be given a free rein to lead his team as he sees fit. The old saying, "too many cooks spoil the broth," still holds good. The morale of the boys being protected means a winning home team. A "hands off" policy should be the motto. Enuf sed.

Fuel Mixture Test

When the carburetor mixture is either too lean or too rich, certain effects will indicate the trouble.

If too lean, the symptoms will be hard starting, back firing when the throttle is opened suddenly and failure of the motor to idle properly. If too rich, the motor will operate unevenly, due to loading up with too much fuel; spark plugs will foul quickly and exhaust gases will cause a burning sensation when coming in contact with the eyes.

LOCAL TEAM WINS OPENING GAME

Bangup Game Is Witnessed By Large Throng Of Home Town Fans

(By Al Gould)

One of the best played baseball games seen for many moons in this community, furnished 250 fans a real thrill Sunday afternoon at Jefferson High diamond, with a pitching duel between Sullivan and Davies.

Playing air-tight baseball behind Sullivan, the local team took in hand the strong Boldeman Chocolate nine to the tune of 5 to 3.

In connecting for ten hits off Davies, who fanned fourteen local batters, the Daly City lads proved their hitting power against the very best, while Sullivan in holding the visiting wrecking crew to nine scattered hits shows that he is due for a very successful season.

WISE OLD HUBBY

Mrs. Fussbody—It's so hard to choose between these hats. I wish you'd offer a suggestion.

Her Husband—I think the one you've already decided on is by far the better one.—Detroit News.

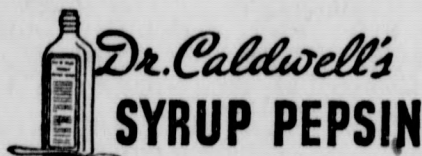

The "liquid test"

...It ENDS bowel worries for many people

This is a test that tells you whether the system needs a cathartic change. If you have constant sluggish spells or bilious attacks, and laxatives seem to make things worse, it would be wise to try this:

Stop all use of any laxative that does not encourage variation from a "fixed dose" (which may be entirely too large a dose for your individual need). Use instead, a liquid laxative that you can measure and regulate as to dose. As necessary to repeat, take smaller doses, less and less often, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.

Doctors use liquid laxatives, and a properly prepared liquid laxative, containing natural laxative agents like senna and cascara is a joy and a comfort; a real help in establishing regularity. Ask your doctor about this! (Doctors use liquid laxatives.) You can get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a most dependable liquid laxative, at any drug store.

Quick Relief from Heartburn

It's surprising how many of us have heartburn. Hurry through breakfast to catch the 8:15, quick lunch at a soda fountain, confining work with lots of cigarettes all day. When your stomach goes on strike, the doctor will say "too much acid," and to try Milnesia Wafers. Take one every night and you won't have any further stomach distress.

MILNESIA Wafers neutralize the excess acids that cause indigestion, heartburn and sick headaches. Each wafer is a full adult dose, children—one-quarter to one-half. Pleasant to take.

Suffered From Tetter on Hands Relieved by Cuticura

"I suffered for two or three years with tetter on my hands. If I did any work they would bleed and become irritated, and I could not bear to put them in water. They were dirty-looking all the time.

"I tried different remedies, but they failed, so I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I purchased more and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment my hands were entirely relieved." (Signed) Miss Mary Pratt, R. 3, New Market, Tenn.

CALIFORNIA News of the Week

After a week of indecision, debate and threats, the resolution memorializing congress to adopt the Townsend plan slipped through the California Senate by the slim margin of 21 to 19. Bundled in an overcoat and accompanied by his physician, 77-year-old Senator King, Hanford, went direct to the Senate chamber from his hospital to vote against the plan "if it's the last thing I do." Earlier, a docile Assembly had passed the resolution by a wider margin.

On March 19, St. Joseph's Day, spring officially arrived—at least at the Mission San Juan Capistrano, where the swallows returned in full force to oust the swifts from the nooks and crannies of the mission. Every year the swallows arrive on this same day, and after a battle in which they always rout the other birds, take possession of the mission. This year ten birds were killed in the "war," five swallows and five swifts.

* Startling charges that criminal operations were performed on expectant mothers at the Contra Costa County hospital at the instigation of relief officials are being investigated. Several women accused Mrs. Ruth McCord, former county relief director, of forcing them into sterilization operations in order to obtain relief aid. As investigations started, Mrs. McCord was nowhere to be found.

Operators of Pacific Coast oil tankers broke off negotiations for a peaceful settlement of the oil tanker strike, charging that the strike was started without giving operators warning. Labor Federation officials said that they had tried to negotiate before the strike, but that the employers would not listen. Employers threatened to operate the boats with non-union labor, if necessary.

The one-day battle of Diestelhorst Island ended with H. M. Zinner, armed squatter, surrendering his shot-gun and himself to Police Chief H. F. Riley of Redding. Armed with his gun, Zinner held off a bridge crew who had started grading a fill for Redding's new highway bridge across the island. He claimed the island as his property. He surrendered, however, to a warrant for his arrest.

Here are optimistic California employment statistics for February: Employees—Up 4.4 per cent from February, 1934, and up 1.9 per cent over January. Total payrolls—Up 12 per cent over February, 1934, and up 3.9 per cent over January. Average individual earnings—Up 7.4 per cent over February, 1934, and up 1.9 per cent over January.

At the important Western Crime Conference held at Sacramento on March 21 and 22, it was shown that Californians are taxed $25,000,000 for crime annually. Plans were discussed for connecting police departments of the states with teletype and radio systems in order to trail criminals who have escaped by plane and auto.

To a Los Angeles Citizens' Relief Committee, Mrs. Rheba Crawford Spillano, Angelus Temple associate pastor, introduced a man who said he was holding three jobs and receiving as many paychecks, simultaneously, from the relief administration. The man, George I. Copeland, said that he got all jobs, applying under the same name, because he wanted "to prove that your organization is inefficient." He was entitled to $20 a month and was receiving $78. He cited other instances of the same duplication.

Fifteen miners marooned in seven feet of snow in the mountains near Oroville, were back on full rations after receiving 200 pounds of fresh meat from the air. Plumas Davis, mine manager, skied to Oroville to obtain help for his men. From an airplane cockpit he directed a pilot to the mine, where food, newspapers and other supplies were dropped.

Lieut. Commander Herbert V. Wiley and 17 other officers who survived the airship Macon's crash off Point Sur have been formally assigned to duty at the Sunnyvale Navy station. The station will be used as a base for aircraft squadrons of the fleet's carriers, announces the Navy Department, reaffirming its statement that all future lighter-than-air activities will be confined to Lakehurst, New Jersey.

Three department heads and two members of the Epic News have resigned their jobs in Los Angeles. Their reason for quitting, they declared, was because the End Poverty League, Inc., offered no further possibilities for the advancement of the liberal principles advocated by Upton Sinclair. The workers insisted that their action "should not be construed as an affront to our leader, Sinclair."

A new 12-inch refractory telescope, costing $12,000, has been installed at the Griffith Park Planetarium, Los Angeles. The five-ton Zeiss telescope is capable of magnifying from 40 to 800 times.

The first three to be sentenced under the new Kern County drunk-walking statute are J. D. Goetz, Joe Rolf and Ray Burns. They were given a choice of $25 fine or 12 days in jail. All took jail. Persons now can be jailed for walking along highways while intoxicated.

Uncommon Sense by John Blake

Thanks to doctors and other scientists, the human machine does not wear out as quickly as it used to.

Quitting Time Men past seventy are still to be found at their desks, doing hard work every day.

Many of them are so "gaited" that they would be very unhappy if they took the time to loaf.

But I believe that every man and woman should during the active working years think of lessening labor as old age approaches.

They may not want to retire when they are past sixty. But they ought to be able to retire if they want to.

Nothing is more pathetic than the spectacle of an elderly man or woman trying to match in energy the younger people around them, and feeling certain that they are doomed to fail.

This is not written for the old, but for the young.

To the young the world seems a long stretch ahead of youth.

But that youth cannot be maintained without planning for its maintenance.

• • • • • If you will persuade yourself that you, like every one else in this world, are not so young as you used to be, perhaps you will be a little more saving of your health as well as of your money.

I have always heard the Scotch were thrifty to a fault.

But when I went to Scotland I found that, while they certainly were thrifty, their thrift was not penuriousness, but a mere sensible provision for the future.

They have lived and done their work in a climate that is quite as dour as many members of their race.

They have learned by experience that the struggle is hard, and they get ready to make it less hard in old age, by counting their pennies, and putting temptation to spend money behind them.

In America, where for many years money was made easily, it was spent more easily. The result was that Americans acquired the spending habit.

They bought more of everything than they needed. They sought to make a show of their wealth.

They tried to keep up with neighbors who were far more affluent than they were.

They have learned better now, but the lesson has been a hard one.

I think in the future that they will be a little more thrifty, a little more awake to the wisdom of making provision for old age.

• • • • • Unless you are a doctor, and a good one, you know very little about the complicated machine

Sick People which is your body.

Today, fortunately for the public, there are more and better doctors than there have ever been before.

Make use of them. It has been said that the man who doctors himself has a fool for his physician.

You probably have found that by taking plenty of exercise, getting out in the open now and then, and not eating things that disagree with you that you will be tolerably well.

But that is not enough.

You ought to be extremely well. Unless you are you cannot do your best work, and if you cannot do your best work you are likely to be a loser in life.

• • • • • Get yourself a doctor. Get a good one.

Let him look you over every so often, as is done in the life extension institutions.

Follow his advice. Get him to explain to you as much of the marvelous system you possess as you understand. Naturally you want to live long.

I have never known anyone who does not. Well, then, try to live long.

And when you get to feeling "low" drop in at the physician's, let him test out the machine and find out what is the matter with it.

Today there are many great hospitals, with staffs of able physicians, all of them specialists in their own line.

If you are in bad health go to one of them and let members of the staff tell you what's the matter and what to do about it.

They and the men who have gone before them have amassed a vast store of knowledge, and it is their business to pass it along to you.

Moreover, don't let a youngster grow up without regular inspection by a man who knows about human bodies, and how to help them to grow healthy and strong.

Give a youngster the right kind of a physical start, and half the battle for his future existence has been fought.

That will not only provide him with a good chance in life, but it will insure him against many of the ills which sometimes blight childhood irreparably.

I am not a doctor, or related to a doctor.

But I have seen them do such splendid work, not only in building healthy bodies, but in averting so many illnesses, that I cannot help now and then rooting for them, and urging everybody I know to give them a chance to show what they can do, and how much misery that may come in after life they can avert with their learning and skill.

THE "NORMAL-CHILD"

The conception of the "inner nature" of the child in progressive education is actually so idealistic that it is entirely unfair to most normal boys and girls. For it assumes quite blandly that the average child is by his very nature intelligent, talented, self-reliant, reasonable and sociably inclined. That he has within himself the ability to make logical judgments and form sensible opinions. But the sad and sober truth is that the average healthy child has very few of these essentially adult traits of mind and character.

The average child is selfish, he is stubborn, he is forgetful, he is cruel, he is illogical. His sense of humor is of an extremely low variety. And his inherent taste, judged by civilized adult standards, is rather atrocious.

The child is like this not because he has been poorly trained or badly conditioned or harshly repressed, but simply because he is a normal child.—Dr. Grace Adams in Scribner's Magazine.

Mr. Bill Jost of Ninety-second avenue celebrated his twenty-third birthday on last Friday evening at his home, where he entertained his many friends.

Mr. Pat Bollentini of Briggs street motored to San Jose Sunday, where he spent a pleasant day with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bocci of Pierce street spent Sunday in Watsonville with friends.

Mrs. George Biggio and Mrs. A. Biggio visited friends in Mill Valley Saturday.

The whist party given by the Druids, Cypress Circle, on Wednesday evening in Colma was largely attended.

Miss Helen Campi was the dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Milani on Tuesday evening.

GIVE HAND SIGNALS TO STOP ACCIDENTS

Drive for the other fellow as well as yourself; give a hand signal and don't make him guess.

Citing the failure of motorists to give proper hand signals as a major cause of traffic accidents and near accidents, the public safety department of the California State Automobile Association has launched a series of educational activities to be carried on throughout March on the importance of signalling as a traffic safety factor.

"Signals should be given whenever a car's movement is likely to interfere with others, such as when starting, turning, stopping, or changing from one traffic lane to another," says a statement by the motorists' organization.

"A basic rule of safety is involved in the giving of proper signals. Other motorists have no other dependable means of knowing what a driver intends to do. The law is quite clear on this subject and requires that a signal be given continuously during the last fifty feet before stopping or turning. The reason for this provision is plain, because if a signal is not given until the last moment other traffic may not be able to slow down or stop in time to avoid a collision.

"The law also requires that all motorists, before starting, turning, or stopping their cars, must first make sure that they can do so in safety. If they cannot do so they must wait until the way is clear. The manner in which signals shall be given is detailed in the California Vehicle Act as follows:

"Whenever the signal is given by means of the hand and arm, the driver shall indicate his intention to turn to the left by extending his hand and arm horizontally from and beyond the left side of the vehicle; his intention to turn to the right by extending his hand and arm upward and beyond the left side of the vehicle; and his intention to stop or suddenly decrease speed by extending his hand and arm downward from and beyond the left side of the vehicle."

SIXTH BIRTHDAY

Richard Renney Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Renney Sr. of Peoria street, entertained a group of friends, last Saturday afternoon, in celebration of his sixth birthday.

Richard received many gifts from those attending.

The afternoon was spent in playing games, after which dainty refreshments were served. The table decorations were carried out in blue, yellow and white.

Those present were Margery Torrance, Patsy Boyle, Lois Carr, Walter Carr, Leonard Nordgren, Henry Montano, Robert Montano and the guest of honor, Richard Renney.

ENTERTAINS CLUB

Mrs. Rose Watson of Evergreen avenue entertained the members of the Daly City Woman's Civic Club and a few friends at a social evening at her home Thursday of last week.

The exciting game of "cootie" was played and awards were given for the highest and lowest scores. After the game sandwiches, cake and coffee were served to about forty guests.

The members are planning a whist party, to be held on the next social evening.

CARDS ENTERTAIN FRIENDS AT HOME

Mr. and Mrs. C. Jespersen of Los Clivos avenue entertained a group of friends at their home Friday evening of last week.

Cards were enjoyed during the evening, after which tempting refreshments were served to their guests. Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Jespersen and daughters, Shirley and Beverly, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Olsen.

MINING NOTES OF VARIOUS SECTIONS

The rich strike recently reported in Oro Fino Gulch by N. C. Sheridan, mining engineer of Helena, and C. R. Brazier of Helena is continuing in size and gives every indication of being one of Montana's major strikes for the year 1935.

The find was made by Carl A. Tintinger and A. R. Qualey, both of Unionville, part owners and lessees of the ground, who resumed work shortly after the first of the year and renewed a search of many years for the rich portion of a lode which has been exposed in numerous surface workings for the past quarter of a century.

The Yankee Fork Dredging Syndicate, which has acquired control of quite a lot of land in the Yankee Fork section of Idaho, expects to start dredge operations in earnest early in the spring. The first shipment of equipment has been transported to the Yankee Fork section to be placed ready for the opening of operations.

The company has completed the erection of a large mess hall, bunkhouse and power line on the site where the dredge will start operations. The power to operate the large generator will be furnished by diesel engines. The camp is located at Ramey Creek on Yankee Fork.

Some five or six men are employed by the company at present but up to a few weeks ago a larger force was on duty at the property. It is expected that when spring comes a much larger force will be employed by the syndicate and the dredge will recover large quantities of placer gold which is located in that section.

Tom Stevens, one of the mining men and prospectors of the old school, has property at the head of Carta Bay, on Granite Mountain, Prince of Wales Island, in which he and associates are interested.

In the past twenty years, Stevens has driven 432 feet of tunnel in the upper vein and 987 in the lower vein, besides a lot of open-cut and other work, in getting the property opened. Recently he found some amazingly rich samples in gold and silver, but these were in small bunches and what he wants to do is to get on the main ledge.

In the Windpass mine, controlled by A. B. Trites, W. R. Wilson and the estate of R. K. Wood, early owners of the Premier Gold, a body of ore at least 180 feet long has been defined by diamond drilling below the No. 5 level, the deepest point reached, indicating that the step-faulted area between the No. 1 and No. 5 levels has been passed and that the Windpass ore is nearer continuous and less faulted as depth is attained.

The 1935 season promises to become a record one for gold production in the Areria Circle portion of the Second Division, Representative Arthur Chamberlain of the Second Division of the Alaska legislature, who is a resident of Deering, said recently. Candle and Kobuk are already assured of increased operations, while the Immachuk field, back of Deering may again come into its own, after virtually two years of idleness.

"The opening of actual dredging operations by the Arctic Circle Exploration Company at Candle will mark the introduction of the first steel pontoon hull to Alaska," Chamberlain declared. "This company has let two contracts for sinking prospect holes, and has three drills on the ground."

"Due to the mildness of the winter, as well as the late freeze-up, a great deal of prospecting has been done already, and it is believed that either one or two more dredges may be brought in within the next two seasons, if the prospects come up to present expectations."

W. M. Fritsch, placer miner of American Creek in the Eagle District of the Yukon is hopeful of good results.

Fritsch and son have been prospecting and mining on this creek for the past eight years and having thoroughly satisfied themselves as to the pay are planning on installing a small hydraulic plant in the spring.

They own some twenty-two claims and have bedrocked and developed by open cuts their entire holdings. In cleaning some 18,000 square feet of bedrock they have cleaned up 392 ounces of gold and this coupled with results obtained by rocking and panning warrants them in stating that their holdings will average better than fifty cents per bedrock foot.

They have ample water, a good grade, but will have to use a giant for stacking their tailings.

Duty Seldom Done

Unavailing are numerous of the suggestions which car makers offer for the care of their products, but none more so than that the gasoline tank should be drained at least once a year.

It is a simple job, too, that requires nothing more than the opening of the plug in the sediment boss below the tank. It removes any water or solid matter which has collected in the bottom of the tank.

ATTEND COSTUME BALL IN MARTINEZ

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Lindorf and daughter, Miss Ruth, of Niantic avenue motored to Concord Saturday, where they spent the weekend visiting at the home of Mrs. Lindorf's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. O. Rasmussen.

On Saturday evening they attended a costume ball given by the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Martinez. Miss Ruth and her cousin, Miss Harriet Rasmussen, captured the first prize for the prettiest costume. They appeared as "The Girls in the Alice Blue Gowns."

Honors Friend On Birthday

Mrs. Margaret Orr entertained on Wednesday afternoon at a birthday party, honoring Mrs. Gertrude Van Bibber.

After a pleasant game of cards the hostess served dainty refreshments. Those present with the guest of honor and the hostess were: Mrs. Agnes Wood, Mrs. Cora Ray, Mrs. Mat Smith, Mrs. Grace Hill, Mrs. Helen Overstreet, and Mrs. Katherine Myra.

HAZARDS INCREASE AFTER FIVE O'CLOCK

More accidents occur from five o'clock in the afternoon to dawn than during the rest of the twenty-four hours.

This is doubtless due to darkness and the heavier traffic at the end of the working day. Physical and mental fatigue render drivers less alert on their homeward way and night drivers are often in a carefree or exhilarated mood which is conducive to speedy, thoughtless operation of their cars.

Hard Starting

If the engine is hard to start and "bucks" at low speed, breaker points may be in need of adjustment.

Because of its nature this job should not be attempted by an inexperienced person.

DON'T BE JAY WALKER

Last year, 14,500 pedestrians were killed by automobiles, according to information received, was nearly half of the total of automobile deaths.

Jaywalking cost the lives of 5080 persons and injured 118,590 others. These accidents happened because these people attempted to cross streets diagonally, against the signals or between intersections.

On streets where traffic at intersections is controlled by traffic signals or by police officers, pedestrians shall not cross the roadway against a "Stop" signal and between adjacent intersections so controlled shall not cross at any place except in a marked or unmarked crosswalk. A pedestrian crossing or starting across in any such crosswalk on a "Go" signal shall have the right of way over all vehicles, including those making turns, until such pedestrian has reached the opposite curb or a safety zone, and it shall be unlawful for the operator of any vehicle to fail to yield the right of way to any such pedestrian.

stated for the council that a final inspection had not been made of the plumbing job at that particular location, although the business of serving food to the public is being carried on at the establishment in question. This may or may not be a violation of law, but it at least would appear not to be good public policy to allow such a condition to prevail.

It would seem that a situation of this kind should be so thoroughly cleared up by those responsible therefor that there might be no cause in future for such charges or misunderstandings between officials and citizens of Daly City. Counter charges surely do not constitute a defense nor a clarification of such matters in the minds of our people as a whole. Let us strive to secure harmony and honest understanding.

Councilman Sundermann reported having attended the meeting for the proposed county wide entertainment this fall. He stated that it was requested that the mayor appoint three or four representative citizens to meet in general county committee.

The matter of the application for a permit to move an auto camp in Colma district from one site to another was laid over to an adjourned meeting Wednesday evening, after being referred to the city attorney for a legal opinion.

At the later meeting on Wednesday the permit for establishment of an auto camp at the new location was refused on the ground that such action would be in violation of the residential zoning ordinance.

LOCAL MEMBERS VISIT SAN JOSE

Several members of El Carmelo Parlor, No. 181, Native Daughters of the Golden West, accompanied Grand Inside Sentinel Alice Oldham to San Jose last week to attend the official visit of Grand President Gladys E. Noce to Vendome Parlor, the home parlor of Grand Trustee Clara A. Gairaud.

The meeting was most impressive and the hall looked beautiful, with green decorations carrying out the St. Patrick's day colors. Delicious refreshments were served after the meeting.

Those local members who attended included: Mesdames Hattie Kelly, Rena Mathias, Leona Falk, Elsie Clemens, Louise Eliassen, Lucille Young and Pauline Quirolo.

ENTERTAINS PAST PRESIDENTS CLUB

On Monday evening of last week, Mrs. Alice Oldham entertained the Past Presidents Club of El Carmelo Parlor at her home on Twenty-sixth avenue, San Francisco.
